H., where they are to pass a fortnight in camp. Early in August they will go to Newport, N. H., where Mr. Quimby has entered a dry goods partnership.

Mrs. W. A. Perry received a genuine surprise yesterday afternoon at her home on Washington street, when a dozen or more of her friends gathered at her home to help in celebrating her birthday anniversary. Supper, prepared by Mrs. Perry, was served by Misses Grace Newhall and Marion Carroll and a very pleasant afternoon and evening was spent. The guests, through their spokesman, Mrs. M. L. Cheney, daughter of Mrs. Perry, presented her with a large fern, with a pedestal, and Mrs. Perry expressed her thanks for the gift. She received numerous other presents through the day and many postcards from absent friends.

A span of horses guided by a driver, whose identity was lost in a cloud of dust that marked the spot where he was last seen after the accident, ran into a Montpelier Italian near the Beckley street intersection on North Main street yesterday afternoon, throwing the man to the ground and rendering him partially unconscious for several moments.

The man from the central was pursuing his way peacefully along the sidewalk when the horses pulled out of the highway and into the path usually reserved for pedestrians. Several people saw the man fall, witnessed the disappearance of the driver and his horses, and are willing to testify to the teamster's carelessness. Dr. P. S. Duffy, who happened along in his auto, took the man to his office and treated him for a concussion on the right shoulder. The man was away without giving the doctor his name.

Miss Ada M. Fitts, supervisor of special classes in the city schools of Boston, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Tilden of upper Prospect street, spoke informally before a gathering of nearly forty Barre, Montpelier and Northfield people in Aldrich hall last evening. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Women's club and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. W. Gates. Miss Fitts gave a very interesting account of her sixteen years' experience among children of the ungraded classes and described in particular some of the observations which a wide acquaintance with conditions among the children of Boston has enabled her to make. In the metropolitan districts at least two per cent of the public school children need special attention and it is an assumed fact that the percentage in the rural districts is much more astonishing. She told of steps which the school authorities in New Hampshire have taken to get at the facts in the Granite state and urged upon her hearers the necessity for an investigation of Vermont's needs in the same direction.

Trials for the 100-yard dash which were begun this afternoon are to continue at intervals through the week. Next week candidates will be worked out for other events.
